The information contained in this guidebook is based on the booklet entitled "The Rights of the Disabled in Israel," produced by the Research and Planning Authority of the National Insurance Institute, Jerusalem, 2003.

Special thanks to Dr. Dina Feldman and the staff of the Commissioner for Equality of the Disabled of the Ministry of Justice, for their assistance in preparing and updating the material presented here.

Introduction

The "Guide to Services for the Disabled" is designed to provide new immigrants, and their families, with information on the rights of the disabled in Israel, as well as the laws and regulations that pertain to them. It also presents a listing of both government and public bodies that offer services.

This booklet is divided into two sections. The first section presents a summary of government services to the disabled. Contact information is also included.

The second half provides a partial list of national organizations that provide services to the disabled and to their families. This list is designed to help familiarize you with the organizations and the services they offer. While the listings contained here are brief, you will be able to find more detailed information from the organizations themselves, from your municipal information line (maked ironi), and from the social services departments of the local authorities. You can also visit the Websites of various bodies and agencies, the addresses of which are included here wherever possible.

The "Guide to Services for the Disabled" is designed as an introduction to the network of assistance. It aims to provide you with the information that can guide you in obtaining the assistance and benefits that you are entitled to from among the range of services provided by governmental and public bodies, and by voluntary and non-profit organizations.

Note: the information contained here is subject to change. Before undertaking any kind of action, be sure to ascertain what your rights and responsibilities are with each government or organizational service.

The information contained here is presented with the permission of the relevant bodies.

In the event of any discrepancy between the information contained in this booklet and the rules and regulations of the service providers, the rules and regulations will prevail.

The "Law of Equal Rights of the Disabled"

"The rights of persons with disabilities, and the obligations of Israeli society to guarantee those rights, are founded upon the recognition of the principle of equality, of human beings being created equal, and upon the principle of respect for all human creation."

From the "Law of Equal Rights of the Disabled."

The "Law of Equal Rights of the Disabled" recognizes the right of disabled persons to make decisions pertaining to their lives, according to their desires and preferences, and in accordance with regulations and other laws, together with providing equal opportunities to realize their rights in every aspect of life.

Specific Clauses of the Law

The Prohibition Against Discrimination In Employment: Paragraph four of the law prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of disability. The prohibition extends to disabled individuals and to members of their family. It prohibits discrimination at all stages of employment, including hiring, conditions of employment, advancement, training, firing, and benefits. This section of the law also mandates an appropriate work environment, sufficient parking and other items, and guarantees the right to file suit against an employer for violation of this law. Legislation is currently being finalized regarding the financing of necessary alterations to the work environment. However, specific categories of persons are eligible for grants from the National Insurance Institute to help cover the costs of alterations to a workplace upon being hired in the private sector.

Accessible Public Transport: The fifth paragraph of the Law mandates that public transport, including city buses, as well as trains, ships, and airplanes, be accessible to the disabled.

The Commissioner for Equality for the Disabled: Paragraph six of the Law mandates the implementation of a Commissioner for Equality for the Disabled. The Commissioner is responsible for monitoring implementation of the Law, and for promoting the rights of disabled persons according to the principles of equality and integration. The office of the Commissioner was established in the year 2000, and operates within the framework of the Ministry of Justice. The Commissioner is legally empowered to file suits against the government for transgressions of the law. Adjacent to the Commissioner is an advisory committee composed primarily of disabled individuals, which serves as a "Parliament of the Disabled."

Additional sections of the law are currently being drafted, including accessibility, housing in the community and individual assistance, cultural and leisure-time activities and sports, education, the judicial system, special requirements, and information.

Section D-7 of the Law is concerned with information, and states that: (A) - "A person with disabilities is entitled to receive information from the public sector regarding his rights within that sector, according to this Law, as well as another law that states, The public sector will act to disseminate information as stated; and (B) - Information will be disseminated according to guidelines contained in clause 18 (A) A person with disabilities is entitled to information disseminated by the civil service in a reasonable manner, and in a manner appropriate to his capabilities."

In the spirit of this Law, the Ministry of Immigrant Absorption, together with the Commissioner for Equality for the Disabled of the Ministry of Justice, has made available the information presented to you in this booklet.

Note that information is also available in recorded form for the blind and those with visual disabilities.

Government Assistance to New Immigrants with Disabilities

New immigrants with disabilities are eligible for the same assistance as that granted to all other immigrants by the Ministry of Immigrant Absorption. In addition, like all other persons with disabilities, new immigrants are entitled to special financial assistance for rental fees, in acquiring a public housing apartment, to special grants from the National Insurance Institute, to discounts on certain payments, and other benefits and services in accordance with their requirements.

The Ministry of Immigrant Absorption

Assured Income

Disabled immigrants who meet the following conditions can be eligible for assured income:

- Persons who suffer from an illness, disability, or limitation, and who are under medical supervision, and have authorization that they are unable to work, either temporarily or permanently, from the Government Employment Service, or the Committee for Evaluation of the Disabled, or their treating physician.
- Persons with disabilities or limitations who receive treatment from a Vocational Diagnosis and Rehabilitation Center of the Ministry of Trade and Industry, or from the Ministry of Social Affairs.
- Those who have received a "Certificate of Blindness" (te'udat ivair) from the Department of Services for the Blind of the Ministry of Social Affairs.
- Those who have received authorization of cognitive disabilities from the Department of Services for the Retarded of the Ministry of Social Affairs.

- Persons who reside in a chronic-care facility, and whose maintenance is not financed by the government.
- One who is unable to work due to the care requirements of a family member (including a spouse, child, or parent) who fulfills one of the requirements listed above. The disabled family member must reside with the claimant, and must be dependent on them for carrying out daily activities. It is necessary to provide medical authorization.

The period of assured income assistance begins from the sixth month following aliyah, and continues until the 12th month following aliyah, following cessation of payments of the Absorption Basket.

The Application Procedure

In order to receive assured income from the Ministry of Immigrant Absorption, it is necessary to file a request through your absorption coordinator (racaz/et klita) at the nearest Ministry branch office.

Following the first year after aliyah, persons in need of assured income must file a claim with the Disabilities Unit of the National Insurance Institute, and meet all National Insurance Institute requirements for assistance. See the section on the National Insurance Institute below.

Public Housing

Public housing apartments are owned by the State and managed by a public housing corporation, which rents them to those who meet eligibility requirements. The rental fees for a public housing apartment are fairly low in relation to fees on the private market. The majority of public housing apartments are located in peripheral areas. There is a greater demand for apartments than can be supplied, therefore the waiting period for a public housing apartment can be several years.

Disabled new immigrants can qualify for a public housing apartment according to Ministry of Immigrant Absorption housing regulations, which determine the following categories of eligibility:

- A severely disabled person who has a permanent disability of 75% or greater as determined by the National Insurance Institute or the Ministry of Defense.
- A minor up to the age of 18 who has been deemed eligible for a Disabled Child Benefit from the National Insurance Institute.
- An individual who suffers from one of the following conditions: a kidney disease that requires dialysis, heart disease, a heart transplant, a malignant disease that requires radiation or chemotherapy, a liver disease that necessitates a liver transplant, lung disease that necessitates a lung transplant, AIDS, or chronic mental illness.
- A person who possesses a "Certificate of Blindness" from the Department of Services for the Blind of the Ministry of Social Affairs.
- An immigrant family that includes at least one severely disabled member.
- An immigrant family that includes at least one member suffering from severe illness.

The Application Procedure

In order to clarify eligibility, or to apply for public housing, consult with your absorption coordinator (racaz/et klita). If you meet all criteria, the racaz/et klita will add your name to the waiting list.

The National Insurance Institute

The National Insurance Institute provides various grants and allowances, as well as rehabilitation and other services to disabled individuals. All assistance is based according to an individual's level of disability, and capacity to support themselves, as determined by the National Insurance Institute medical review board.

One who is eligible for a disability allowance, and who has no other source of income, is exempt from paying National Insurance Institute premiums.

Disability Allowance

The following categories can be eligible for a Disability Allowance (kitzbat nechut):

- Residents of Israel, who are insured by the National Insurance Institute, men aged 18-65, women aged 18-60 (with the exception of married women who are not employed outside their homes) who have a physical disability, mental disability, or psychological disability resulting from illness, accident, or birth defect, and who meet the following criteria:
 1. They are unable to support themselves through employment, or do not earn a salary greater than 25% of the average wage.
 2. Their employment capability, and their actual employment, have been reduced as a result of their disability, either all at one time, or on a gradual basis, by 50% or more.

Levels of disability are determined by the Medical Review Board of the National Insurance Institute, and according to National Insurance Institute criteria.

For detailed information, or to file a claim for a Disability Allowance, consult with a National Insurance Institute branch office nearest you. Information is also available on their Website: www.btl.gov.il.

NOTE: Disabled new immigrants can be eligible for a National Insurance Institute Disability Allowance from the second year only following receipt of new immigrant status. It is necessary to have eligibility verified by the National Insurance Institute. New immigrants during their first year in Israel can claim assistance from the Ministry of Immigrant Absorption only. See above.

Attendance Allowance

The Attendance Allowance (kitzbat sherutim meuchadim) is given to disabled persons who are dependent on the assistance of others for carrying out daily activities, or who are in need of supervision in order to insure their safety and that of others.

Special Allowance for Severely Disabled Immigrants

New immigrants who are classified as severely disabled, men aged 18-65, women aged 18-60, may be eligible, according to specific criteria, to a special Attendance Allowance after three months following receipt of new immigrant status. In order to be eligible, the new immigrant must be dependent on others for carrying out daily activities, or in need of supervision. After 6 months following receipt of new immigrant status, it may also be possible to collect a special Disability Allowance in addition to the Attendance Allowance.

Disabled Child Benefit

The Disabled Child Benefit (Gimla LeYeled Neche) is comprised of a Special Arrangements Allowance and an allowance for educational assistance and developmental therapy.

Conditions for Receiving a Disabled Child Benefit:

- The beneficiary is the child of an insured parent.
- The child does not reside with a foster family or in an institution that provides medical, nursing, or rehabilitative care.

- New immigrant children who make aliyah without their parents can be eligible for benefits on condition that they make aliyah with a legal guardian or other family member, (e.g. a sibling or grandparent).

Eligibility

The following categories can be eligible for benefits:

- Children up to the age of 3 who suffer from one of the following:
 - A severe illness that requires medical treatment.
 - A visual or hearing disability.
 - Severe developmental delay.
 - Down's Syndrome.
 - Children who require full-time supervision.
- Children between the ages of 3-18 in one of the following circumstances:
 - Children who are dependent upon another person for carrying out daily activities.
 - Children who suffer from severe illnesses.
 - Children who require dialysis at least twice a week.
 - Children following a transplant operation (for one year following the transplant).

Mobility Allowance

The Mobility Allowance (gimlat nayedut) is provided to those with limited mobility and movement.

Conditions of Eligibility

- Residents of Israel, ages 3-65 in one of the following circumstances:
 - Individuals whose percentage of disability has been determined by the Medical Review Board of the Ministry of Health.

- Holders of valid driver's licenses who have been determined to have a minimum 40% disability, or parents of a disabled child.
- Persons who do not have a valid driver's license, and who have been determined to have at least 60% disability in movement.
- Individuals with limited mobility, and who do not own an automobile.

In order to receive detailed information about various mobility benefits, consult with the nearest branch office of the National Insurance Institute. Information is also available on their Website: www.btl.gov.il.

The Mobility Allowance includes the following:

- A standing loan to cover part or all of the taxes on a new automobile (but not one's first automobile). Eligibility is extended to persons with a disability of least 40% and who have driver's licenses, or to individuals with at least 60% limited mobility, who do not have driver's licenses, but do have an immediate family member who is permitted to drive.
- A loan and a grant for purchasing a first automobile that requires special features according to the determination of the Medical Institute for Road Safety (HaMachon HaRefui LeBitichut BeDrachim). The assistance is intended for those with at least 90% disability, and who are either employed or are students, or who are in rehabilitation or serving in the Israel Defense Forces.
- Assistance for purchasing and installing special devices in an automobile, including a lift device for a wheelchair for one who receives a mobility allowance, and whose need for a wheelchair has been determined by the Medical Review Board of the National Insurance Institute, and for whom the Medical Institute has determined to require a specially equipped automobile.

- A monthly allowance for owners of automobiles.
- A monthly allowance for those who do not own automobiles.
- Partial coverage of driving-lesson fees.

Vocational Rehabilitation

In addition to the allowances distributed by the National Insurance Institute, disabled persons with general disabilities, victims of terror attacks, and victims of work accidents or occupational illnesses can be entitled to vocational rehabilitation.

Request claims for vocational rehabilitation should be filed at the nearest National Insurance Institute branch office. In the case of disabilities resulting from work accidents or illnesses, requests should be filed within one year of determination of the percentage of permanent disability.

Participation in Purchasing Equipment

For information on assistance towards the purchasing of medical equipment, see the section entitled "The Ministry of Social Affairs."

Work Injury Insurance

Work injury insurance (bituach nifga'ei avodah) is designed to compensate victims of work accidents or occupational illnesses for lost income, and to assist them in returning to the workforce.

Eligibility

- Salaried workers and the self-employed who are injured in an accident at their place of employment, or on their way to and from work, or who have contracted a work-related illness.
- Dependent family members of a person who dies as the result of job-related injuries.

Assistance includes:

- Medical treatment through a health fund.
- Work-injury compensation during the period in which injured persons are unable to work.
- A work-related disability allowance for individuals with a temporary disability of at least 5%, or a permanent disability of at least 20%.
- A work-related disability grant for individuals with between 5%-20% disability.
- Vocational rehabilitation for individuals with a permanent disability of 10% or more.
- An allowance and a special grant for individuals with a high percentage of disability.
- An allowance, a grant, and vocational rehabilitation for dependent family members of a person who dies as the result of work-related injuries.
- Assistance towards acquiring equipment including special beds, lift devices, walkers, and prosthetic devices.

For more detailed information on conditions of eligibility, or to file a claim for compensation, consult with the nearest National Insurance Institute branch office.

Accident Insurance

Accident Insurance (bituach nifga'ei te'unot) is designed for persons who have lost the capacity to work or to function at home as the result of an accident.

Eligibility

- Residents of Israel, men aged 18-65, women aged 18-60.

Note: Accident Insurance does not cover those injured in automobile accidents.

For more details, consult the National Insurance Institute.

Compensation for Victims of Enemy Actions

Those wounded in enemy actions, as well as family members of a deceased victim, are entitled to compensation, rehabilitation, grants, and other benefits.

Assistance includes:

- Disability Allowances for those with a 20% disability or higher, in accordance with the level of disability.
- One-time disability grants for those with a permanent disability of 10-19%.
- Dependent's Allowances for surviving spouses and parents of persons killed in an enemy action.
- Additional allowances, including medical and convalescence allowances, assistance for medical equipment, vocational rehabilitation, assistance in purchasing an automobile, and housing grants.

Compensation for Prisoners of Zion and Families of Martyrs

One who is recognized as a Prisoner of Zion, or the family members of a Prisoner of Zion who was killed while in jail or detention, can be eligible for compensation from the National Insurance Institute.

Eligibility

- A Prisoner of Zion who has become at least 10% disabled as a result of imprisonment, detention, or deportation.
- A Prisoner of Zion whose income does not exceed a minimum set by law.

- Immediate family members of a Prisoner of Zion who died while in jail or detention, or who was executed in another country due to their links with Judaism or Israel.

Forms of Compensation

- Allowances for disabled Prisoners of Zion.
- Allowances for Prisoners of Zion whose income does not exceed a set minimum.
- Allowances for immediate family members of Prisoners of Zion who died or were executed.
- Additional benefits for disabled Prisoners of Zion, including medical, hospitalization, and convalescence allowances, medical equipment, and vocational rehabilitation.

Requests for compensation for Prisoners of Zion should be filed with the nearest branch office of the National Insurance Institute. Rejected requests may be resubmitted once six months have passed.

The Ministry of Construction and Housing

Disabled persons who lack housing may be eligible for rental subsidies, assistance towards purchasing an apartment, or public housing.

Eligibility

- Permanently blind persons who possess a "Certificate of Blindness" (te'udat ivair) from the Ministry of Social Affairs.
- Individuals with a permanent or stable disability of 75% or more, who are recognized by the National Insurance Institute, the Ministry of Health, or the Ministry of Defense; or persons with a stable loss of ability of 75% or more, or with limited mobility of 75% or more.
- Individuals who have received certification from the Ministry of Health that they are confined to, or in need of, a wheelchair.

The Ministry also maintains funds for assisting persons eligible for public housing in purchasing an apartment on the private market. Eligibility is extended to persons who have been approved for public housing, but for whom an apartment has not become available.

The Application Procedure

In order to receive a special "Certificate of Eligibility" (te'udat zeka'ut) for housing assistance for disabled persons, it is necessary to apply to one of the mortgage banks. You must supply all relevant medical and other documents. Mortgage banks are located throughout the country.

The Ministry of Defense

http://station14.mod.gov.il/pages/public_service/shrutei_shikum.asp

The Department of Rehabilitation of the Ministry of Defense is responsible for rehabilitation services for disabled IDF soldiers (nechei tzahal).

Eligibility: Persons injured during service in the Israel Defense Forces, and who have been recognized as a disabled IDF soldier.

Services include:

- Allowances
- Medical treatment
- Vocational and general rehabilitation
- Social and psychological services
- Social welfare services

The extent of benefits is determined according to disability level.

The Application Procedure:

Claims for benefits must be filed with the Officer for IDF Disabled (katzin nifga'ei tzahal).

The Israel Police and the Prison Services

Persons disabled as a result of service with the Israel Police or the Prison Services should apply to a regional Rehabilitation Department of the Ministry of Defense.

Rehabilitation Services

The Ministry of Social Affairs provides rehabilitation services designed to improve the level of functioning of disabled persons, and to facilitate their rehabilitation in personal, social, financial and vocational spheres. Services are provided to disabled individuals from birth until retirement age (men age 65, women age 60).

Services include:

- Locating and referring candidates for vocational rehabilitation.
- Diagnosis and assessment of capabilities, and development of personal rehabilitation programs, professional training, training in developing work habits, placement and monitoring in rehabilitation centers and business development centers.
- Sheltered workshops designed to employ persons who are unable to integrate into the open job market.
- Financial aid for persons with severe disabilities who reside in their own communities (and not in residential facilities), e.g. supplements to National Insurance Institute benefits. The aid is given according to income, level of functioning, family status, and other criteria.
- Refund of travel expenses to rehabilitation centers.
- Day-frameworks including outpatient rehabilitation centers and rehabilitation clubs, family respite frameworks, and summer camps for children in special education.
- Daily foster-family care, home caretakers, teachers, and support workers.
- Residential care and foster families for persons with severe disabilities.

- Social clubs and assistance to participants in social activities with the help of a teacher or therapist.
- Paramedical services including speech therapy and occupational therapy.
- Tutoring
- Diagnosis and assessment within the frameworks of Centers for Child Development (mercazim lehitpatchut hayeled).

Application Procedure

In order to receive a referral to a Rehabilitation Center, apply to the Rehabilitation Department at the nearest branch office of the National Insurance Institute.

Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

The Ministry provides supportive communication services for person age 16 and up.

Services include:

- Translation from sign language to spoken language and transcription (input with a keyboard). Individuals who do not speak sign language can receive a number of translation or transcription hours in accordance with their level of hearing loss. Individuals who suffer from a combination of hearing loss and vision loss can receive a greater number of hours.
- Tax refunds on the purchase of a fax or fax/modem, every four years per family unit, for persons who suffer from a hearing loss from 50 decibels and up.
- Assistance in purchasing a baby-cry monitor for families with children up to the age of 3.

Communications Basket

The "Communications Basket" (sal tikshoret) is financial assistance for purchasing special equipment, and is given once every four years.

Eligibility

Those who meet the following conditions are eligible:

- Women age 18-60, men age 18-65, according to the following criteria:
 - One whose level of hearing loss in their healthiest ear is 70 decibels or more.
 - One who has been deaf since the age of three.

Elderly persons who were previously eligible for the "Communications Basket" can receive participation of up to 25% of the costs of acquiring equipment.

Application Procedure

In order to apply for "Communications Basket" assistance, and to receive a list of items included for coverage, contact the Support Services Center of "Acha" – The Israeli Association for the Deaf.

Communications Allowance

The Communications Allowance (dmei tikshoret) is a monthly payment that is transferred directly to the bank account of persons who are eligible for the "Communications Basket." It is designed to assist in purchasing batteries and maintaining equipment.

Application Procedure

To apply for the Communications Allowance, consult with the social services department of your local municipality, where you will fill out an application form. You then undergo an ear, nose, and throat examination, as well as clinical communications examinations. Following the examinations, return the authorizations that you receive to the social services department.

NOTE: Services to the deaf and the hard of hearing are subject to changes. For updated information, contact the Support Services Center of Acha. See the address above.

Services to Persons with Cognitive Disabilities

Persons with cognitive disabilities, of all ages and at all levels, can integrate into Ministry of Social Affairs programs designed to develop and maximize their capabilities. Services include sheltered housing and employment, social activities, and other forms of aid.

Eligibility

Eligibility for services is based on an assessment by the Evaluation Board (va'adat ivchun), which determines the level of disability and recommends appropriate care plans.

Services include:

- Evaluations and care recommendations.
- Programs for personal development.
- Programs for social and inter-personal education.
- Counseling and therapy within the family framework.
- Day-care facilities for babies and children up to age 3.
- Integration into mainstream daycare facilities.
- Afternoon frameworks for children age 3-12.

- Social clubs.
- Sheltered and supportive employment, and employment in the open market.
- Therapeutic frameworks for persons age 21 and over who are unable to integrate into various vocational frameworks.
- Respite facilities.
- Foster families.
- Residence in group apartments or hostels, and community integration for adults who are unable to continue residing with their families.
- Residential facilities.

Application Method

Application for services is through the social services department of your local municipal authority. The Department will process a referral to the Evaluation Board, and can offer guidance on services in the community. You can reach your municipal information line (moked ironi) by dialing 106 in most locations.

The Department of Services for the Blind

All blind persons, from children to the elderly, who have difficulties in functioning as a result of decreased or lost vision, can receive counseling and rehabilitation services from the Department of Services for the Blind (HaSherut LeIvair). Rehabilitation services aim to provide blind and visually impaired persons with the tools to function at an optimal level at home, at work, and in their community surroundings.

Information Centers

Information Centers provide information and counseling on rehabilitation and support services to visually impaired individuals and their families. Areas of information include devices for persons with impaired vision, libraries, self-help groups, social clubs, obtaining and benefiting from a "Certificate of Blindness" (te'udat ivair), vocational rehabilitation, and supportive teachers for visually impaired students who study in regular schools.

Services are offered to all age groups who suffer from visual impairments that affect their daily functioning, including:

- Persons who have recently suffered vision loss.
- Persons whose visual impairments are worsening, or whose ability to function at work is decreasing.
- Persons who suffer from family and other problems as a result of vision loss.
- Children with impaired vision.

Information Centers are staffed by university-trained professionals who themselves have impaired vision or blindness.

Application Procedure

Your attending eye doctor can refer you to an Information Center and provide you with a referral form. The Center will return a written assessment and recommendations to your doctor. It is not necessary to make an appointment for a visit to an Information Center during operation hours.

Details are available through hospital ophthalmology clinics, or by calling (02) 5004275, or the mechanized answering service (02) 5004276. Information is available in English on Sundays between the hours of 11:00-13:00, at (09) 8630316.

Certificate of Blindness/Impaired Vision

The Certificate of Blindness (te'udat ivair) confers eligibility for benefits from the Ministry of Social Affairs and other bodies. The Certificate does not automatically confer eligibility for recognition as disabled by the National Insurance Institute.

Applications for a Certificate are made through the social services department of the local municipal authorities. A Certificate is granted according to results of an ophthalmologic examination administered by the Department of Services to the Blind of the Ministry of Social Affairs.

Conditions of Eligibility:

- Persons with significant loss of vision.
- Persons with an impairment of at least 3/60 in their healthiest eye, even with the help of glasses.
- Persons whose field of vision is reduced to the extent that the total scope of vision is no greater than 20 degrees in their healthiest eye.

In specific cases, it is possible to receive a temporary Certificate.

Information Publications in Braille and on Recorded Cassettes.

Publications about services to the blind can be ordered in Braille form or recorded cassettes (in Hebrew and English) by contacting the Center for the Blind.

Rehabilitation

Rehabilitation services focus on the following:

- Mastering techniques for improved functioning, including mobility, communication, and methods of accomplishing every-day activities. Services are provided by rehabilitation coaches, and are adapted to each individual's specific requirements. Rehabilitation sessions can be based at home or other frameworks as necessary, as well as once a year in a residential center located in Tzfat. Application is through the social services department of the local municipal authorities.

- Rehabilitation for the visually impaired, including adaptation of supportive devices for impaired vision, and support services within the framework of Institutes for Impaired Vision.

For more information, or to apply for assistance, contact one of the Institutes for Impaired Vision.

Computers and Advanced Technology

The blind and visually impaired can receive assistance in acquiring computer skills, and in purchasing or borrowing a computer for work or study. Assistance is given through placement coordinators of the Ministry of Social Affairs, and with the participation of the National Insurance Institute. Assistance for computer studies is also available through the social services departments of the local municipal authorities, and through the Learning Center for the Blind of "Aleh" – the Association of Blind and Dyslexic Students in Israel, located at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, and at university extensions in other locations. Appropriate software and other devices are made available according to individual need.

Application Procedure

Applications for vocational rehabilitation are made through the social services department of the local municipal authorities, or Ministry of Social Affairs placement coordinators at Ministry branch offices.

You can reach your municipal information line (moked ironi) by dialing 106 in most locations.

Social Rehabilitation and Emotional Support

Social rehabilitation and support services include:

- Social clubs: social clubs offering a range of social activities, crafts workshops, support groups, sports activities, hikes and tours, and more.
- Libraries: book loans in Hebrew and other languages, in Braille and on cassettes.
- Organized vacations: specialized vacation plans in hotels throughout the country.
- Sports and physical activities: exercise rooms at clubs and rehabilitation centers.

Information on social clubs, libraries, and other services is available from the social services departments of the local municipal authorities, from municipal telephone information centers and from organizations for the blind. Services are extended to those who possess a Certificate of Blindness.

Multi-Service Center for the Blind

Multi-service Centers for the Blind (mercazim rav sherutim leivair 'M.R.S.H.L.') operated by the local municipal authorities, offer information and counseling, rehabilitation, social activities and emotional support to the blind and the visually impaired.

Services for Children

Ministry of Social Affairs services to blind and visually impaired children include the following:

Centers for Child Development: Centers for Child Development offer diagnosis and treatment of visual disabilities for pre-school age children. The goal of treatment is the reinforcement and retention of capabilities. Apply through the social services department of your local municipality.

Special Kindergartens: Special kindergarten frameworks offer educational, therapeutic, and rehabilitation services for children up to the age of 3. Special kindergartens aim to prepare blind or visually impaired children for integration into mainstream kindergartens. Application is through the social services departments of the local municipal authorities.

Support Teachers: Support teachers assist blind students studying in mainstream schools.

Children with Special Needs: children with special needs, who are unable to integrate into mainstream schools, may attend special schools or live within residential frameworks.

Student Houses: Student Houses (batei talmid) are regional educational frameworks designed to help develop and strengthen capabilities. Student Houses are located throughout the country. Application is through the social services departments of the local municipal authorities, or through a Ministry of Education support teacher.

Companion and Mobility Allowances

The Companion Allowance (dmei livui) is an allowance towards the expenses of another person who accompanies a blind person in order to facilitate their mobility. Eligibility is extended to holders of a Certificate of Blindness/Visual Impairment, women ages 18-60, men ages 18-65.

A full allowance is available to persons who are either studying or employed. Persons who are not employed can receive 75% of the allowance on condition that they do not receive an Attendance Allowance from the National Insurance Institute. An unemployed person who does receive an Attendance Allowance can receive 50% of the Companion Allowance. An elderly person who received a Companion Allowance prior to retirement age is eligible for 50% of the allowance following retirement age.

Other categories of eligibility include:

- Persons in rehabilitation and vocational training frameworks.
- Persons who are both blind and deaf and who are in rehabilitation framework.

Eligibility for the Companion Allowance is determined during the evaluation process for a Certificate of Blindness/Impaired Vision. A person whose evaluation does not confer eligibility for an allowance may repeat the medical examination after six months.

For more information, or to apply for assistance, consult with the social services department of your local municipal authority.

Higher Education

Support Units that assist blind students in accessing information, and that offer technical and other forms of support, are located at the following universities: Hebrew University, Bar Ilan University, the University of Haifa, the Technion, and the Open University.

Blind students in institutions of higher education are entitled to accommodations in university dormitories, and to have their rooms adapted to their needs.

Other institutions can supply students with recorded or Braille material, as well as materials that can be recorded on request. Information is available from the university secretariats.

Student Discounts

A student who possesses a Certificate of Blindness/Impaired Vision, and who is accepted by an institution of higher education, can receive assistance towards the cost of accommodations, reading aids, and other equipment, from the Department of Services to the Blind of the Ministry of Social Affairs. Application is through the social services departments of the local municipalities.

Blind students may also be eligible for scholarships. For information, consult with the Dean's Office at the relevant institution.

Participation in the Costs of Medical Equipment

The Ministry of Health, Public Health Service, participates in the costs of acquiring rehabilitation equipment, wheelchairs, sanitary chairs, special beds, lifts, hearing aids, and other items. The Ministry also participates in the costs of repairing motorized mobility devices, walkers, and prosthetic devices.

A detailed list of equipment is available from District Health Offices.

Eligibility

Eligibility for participation in the costs of medical equipment is extended to:

- Individuals with permanent disabilities.
- Persons in chronic-care facilities, hospitals, and residential facilities of the Ministry of Social Affairs are eligible for walker devices and prosthetic devices only. One in need of a wheelchair can consult with one of the non-profit organizations that rent or lend medical equipment.

Those who are not eligible include:

- Victims of work accidents or enemy actions, IDF disabled, and victims of automobile accidents, who receive assistance from other sources.

Level of Assistance

Assistance is provided for up to 75% of the costs of equipment as determined by the Ministry of Health.

Note: Eligibility for coverage of equipment costs is granted on the basis of authorization from a licensed physician.

Application Procedure

Applications for participation in equipment costs are processed through the Guidance Coordinators of the Departments of Chronic Diseases at Ministry of Health District Health Offices.

Health Funds

The health funds (kupot holim) provide services to disabled persons within the framework of the "Basket of Health Services".

Services include:

- Hospitalization.
- Rehabilitation.
- Physiotherapy and occupational therapy.
- Medical equipment included in the "Basket of Health Services".
- Specialized treatments.
- Referrals to clinics, imaging and x-ray facilities, and specialists.
- Discounts or refunds on payments for medications that exceed a set monthly amount.

Additional services are provided through supplementary insurance plans, and according to the type of plan. Note that the above-listed benefits are liable to change from time to time.

Persons who receive general disability pensions from the National Insurance Institute can be exempt from the following payments:

- Visits to specialists
- Referrals to hospitals
- Visits to clinics and outpatient facilities

Exemptions are given in accordance with a list that is forwarded to the health funds by the National Insurance Institute. Note that exemptions are subject to change.

The Ministry of the Interior

www.moin.gov.il

The Municipal Authorities – Discounts on Property Taxes

- Persons who receive general disability allowances from the National Insurance Institute may be eligible for a discount on property taxes (armona). Discounts are given according to the discretion of each local authority, and based on levels of disability, income, and other factors.
- Parents who receive a Disabled Child Benefit for a child that resides at home can receive up to a 25% discount on property tax.
- Prisoners of Zion who receive an allowance from the National Insurance Institute can receive a discount of up to 66%.
- Persons who possess a Certificate of Blindness (te'udat ivair) can receive a discount of up to 90%.
- Disabled veterans of Israel's wars, disabled World War II veterans, and victims of enemy actions, whose ability to support themselves has been reduced by 50% or more, as well as bereaved parents of persons in the above categories, can be eligible for a discount of up to 2/3 of the amount of their property taxes.

Persons who own additional property (another apartment, business premises, etc) are not entitled to a discount.

Note: discounts on property taxes are not granted automatically, but according to the specific criteria of each municipality.

The Population Authority

The Population Authority (minhal uchlusin) permits persons who are unable to function independently to employ a foreign caretaker.

Eligibility

Eligibility to hire a foreign caretaker is extended to disabled persons or persons with chronic illnesses, who are unable to function independently according to the assessment of the National Employment Service.

Application Procedure

A request for a foreign caretaker can be filed with a branch office of the Population Authority, or through a manpower agency that is authorized to bring in foreign caretakers.

Note that specific branch offices of the Population Authority contain service counters for the disabled. It is not necessary to stand in line at these service counters.

The Central Elections Committee – Accessibility to Polling Stations

The "Knesset Elections Law" mandates that every community or geographical area containing 10,000 people establish at least one polling station that is appropriate to the needs of disabled voters. In communities with 20 polling stations or more, at least two polling stations must be accessible to those with limited mobility.

- Information about accessible polling stations must appear on the back of the notice to vote, and be indicated by the international 'disabled' symbol, e.g. a wheelchair.
- A person with limited mobility is entitled to vote at any polling station that has been classified as "accessible," even if no indication appears on the back of the notice to vote. Voting is carried out at such a polling station using a double envelope.
- On a day that elections are held, the municipal authorities are responsible for setting up a temporary sign next to an accessible polling station, designed to reserve two parking spaces for persons with limited mobility.

- Persons with limited mobility, who live in residential facilities recognized by the Ministry of Social Affairs or the Ministry of Health, and financed by one of these ministries by more than 50%, are entitled to vote in polling stations set up inside the facility. This also applies to nursing homes.
- Persons with physical disabilities, who are unable to manage the voting procedure on their own, may be accompanied by a person of their choice. Note that the accompanying individual is prohibited from being the director or an employee of the institution in which the voter resides.
- The location of disabled-accessible polling stations must be publicized at Information Centers of the Central Elections Bureau in advance of the elections, as well as in newspapers, through the electronic media, on notice boards, and on the Website of "Access Israel": www.access-israel.org.

Planning and Construction

The Ministry of the Interior is responsible for implementing the "Planning and Construction Law," which mandates accessible features for the disabled in all public buildings.

The Law includes the following:

- Building permits: the law stipulates that contractors who construct public buildings may receive building permits only on condition that the construction plans include accessibility arrangements for the disabled (parking, ramps, roadways, wide doorways, elevators, washroom facilities, etc.). A shortened procedure can be implemented for granting building permits for installing accessibility features.
- Regional planning and construction committees must require the installation of accessibility features in public buildings that received building permits following April, 1972, and in public buildings that are being renovated.

- Local municipal authorities are required to install access ramps in all areas that are used for the passage of pedestrians.
- Cinemas, theaters, auditoriums, stadiums, and similar structures must provide sufficient seating areas for persons in wheelchairs.
- A chair-lift may be installed in apartment buildings, with the permission of more than 50% of the residents.
- Protests of residents in communal apartment buildings against installing accessibility features may be overruled.
- An elevator may be installed in an apartment building with the agreement of 75% of the residents.
- Municipal authorities are responsible for adapting metropolitan public transportation to meet the needs of the disabled.

The Ministry of Transportation

Discounts on Public Transportation

Persons who receive general disability allowances, and who have a disability in supporting themselves of at least 75%, can purchase discounted fare cards for intra-city travel, and for specific inter-city routes. A Certificate of Eligibility is automatically sent to eligible individuals, once every two years. If you are eligible for a Certificate and did not receive one, or if the Certificate has been lost, contact:

Benefits to the Blind

The Ministry of Transport offers the following benefits to the blind:

- Full exemption on bus fare on urban routes.
- Discounts on inter-city bus travel.

Be sure to display a Certificate of Blindness/Impaired Vision when requesting bus tickets.

Accessible Public Transport

The Ministry of Transport attempts to implement the guidelines and regulations governing the accessibility of public transport. New-model city buses should all be accessible to the disabled, and trains are being gradually upgraded in order to insert accessibility.

Airlines are required to ensure accessibility both on the ground and on board aircraft, in accordance with guidelines of public transport accessibility.

Driver's Licenses

The Licensing Division of the Ministry of Transport grants driver's licenses in accordance with an applicant's capability.

The Licensing Authority refers applicants for licenses or renewal of licenses to medical examinations, in addition to the optical examinations required of all applicants. Examinations are conducted by the Institute for Medical Road Safety (HaMachon HaRefui LeBitichut BeDrachim) of the Ministry of Health. Referrals are made by the district licensing authority offices in Jerusalem, Holon, Haifa, and Beer Sheva. Applicants must sign a waiver of medical confidentiality.

Recommendations of the Institute for Medical Road Safety are forwarded to the Licensing Authority, which then authorizes a driving test in a suitable vehicle.

In the event that a request for a license is denied, applicants may request to view the medical assessment upon which the refusal was based. Appeals may also be made within 30 days to the Appeals Committee of the Ministry of Health.

Discounts on Registration Fees

Disabled persons who drive a vehicle for personal reasons, but not for business, can receive a discount on automobile registration fees.

'Disabled' Parking Stickers

Persons who are at least 60% disabled, those who have limited mobility, and the blind (e.g. a family member who transports a blind person), are entitled to display a sticker in the windshield of their cars that permits them to park in places where parking is not otherwise permitted. The sticker may be used to park in unauthorized spaces if there is no available parking space within a reasonable distance, or if there is no reserved disabled space, on condition that the vehicle is not parked in a place that disrupts traffic or endangers others using the route.

Income Tax Benefits

Persons who receive general disability allowances, and who have a combined medical disability level of 90% and up, as well as those with a medical disability level of 100%, can be eligible for exemptions from paying income tax up to a set maximum income.

Persons who have a Certificate of Blindness/Impaired Vision, and who are employed, are also entitled to exemptions from paying income tax. Immediate family members (spouse, parent, child) can receive two income tax credit points.

A person with a parent, spouse, or child, who is paralyzed, permanently bedridden, blind, or mentally ill, or who has a developmentally disabled child, can receive two income tax credit points.

Individuals with an immediate family member living in a residential care facility may be eligible for a partial exemption from income taxes in place of credit points.

Requests for tax benefits or exemptions can be submitted to an income tax assessor at the nearest Income Tax Authority office.

Reduced Acquisition Tax on Apartments

The following categories can be eligible for a discount of 0.5% on the Acquisition Tax (mas rechisha) when purchasing an apartment:

- All new immigrants (including non-disabled immigrants) for 7 years from the date of aliyah.
- Persons with a permanent medical disability of 100%, or of 90% resulting from various accumulated disabilities.

- A person who has been determined by the National Insurance Institute to have at least a 75% disability in supporting themselves.
- A person with an amputated hand or foot, or who is paralyzed, with a permanent disability of 50% or higher.
- A person with at least a 50% permanent disability resulting from an automobile accident.
- A person with a permanent disability percentage of 19% or more.
- A person with a permanent disability of 50% or more according to the "Law of Nazi Fighters."
- Victims of terror attacks with a permanent disability percentage of 19% or more.
- A couple in which one spouse is disabled.

Note: The Ministry of Finance regulates the "Law of Nazi Fighters" and also aids in the purchase of equipment such as wheelchairs, special beds, and prosthetics.

Accessibility

Information on accessible synagogues and ritual baths can be obtained from the local religious councils. Accessible burial plots are allocated according to availability.

The Ministry of Education

www.education.gov.il

Mainstream and Integrated Frameworks

- Every student with physical or cognitive disabilities is entitled to be integrated within a mainstream classroom, or study in an integrated class (kita meshulevet) according to their capabilities. Placement is made upon the basis of recommendations of the Placement Committee (va'adat hasama) of the Ministry of Education, and with the agreement of the parents.
- Disabled students who learn in regular classrooms are entitled to a "Basket of Services" as detailed by the "Special Education Law".

Special Education

The "Special Education" law mandates that all children with special needs, from the ages of 3-21, whose eligibility for special education has been authorized by the Placement Committee of the Ministry of Education, receive the following, according to their needs:

- Integration teachers in kindergarten and regular primary schools.
- Studies in special classes and integrated classes in mainstream schools.
- Studies in special education schools.
- Residence in dormitories for special education students.

- Transport to special education schools.
- Special activities during vacations for students in special education.

Students in special education are also entitled, as part of their individual study programs, to paramedical services including physiotherapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, movement, art, and drama therapies.

Application Procedure

Children are placed into special education frameworks by the Placement Committee of the Ministry of Education. Requests for a hearing by the Committee may be made by the parents or by a recognized educational institution, by the municipal education authority or by a public organization, as well as by medical diagnosticians.

Accessibility

The Ministry of Education mandates accessibility arrangements on at least one floor at all educational institutions attended by disabled students, or that employ a person with physical or cognitive disabilities. The law also requires that all new educational institutions be constructed with accessibility features included.

Special Ulpan Programs

The Department of Adult Education has established special ulpan classes designed to meet the needs of disabled new immigrants:

Programs include:

- Ulpan programs for the blind.
- Ulpan programs for the deaf.
- Ulpan programs for people suffering from mental illness.

Ulpan classes are offered based on a sufficient number of participants.

Students receive one weekly study hour per class member, with the total number of hours equal to the number of students in a class. Eligibility is for 3 years from the date of aliyah.

Application Procedure

Application for ulpan classes is through an absorption coordinator (racaz/et klita) at branch offices of the Ministry of Immigrant Absorption. Students with mental illnesses should apply through the nearest District Health Office of the Ministry of Health. See the addresses above.

Immigrant Students

Disabled immigrant students, who study in mainstream schools, or in special education schools, are entitled like all immigrant students to tutoring in Hebrew. The number of tutoring hours is in accordance with the number of immigrant students in the school.

Accessibility to Court Deliberations

Court buildings that were constructed during the past few years are accessible to the disabled. Older buildings should have suitable accessibility arrangements.

Accessibility to the Deaf

During court hearings, a judge can appoint a sign-language translator or permit individuals to read testimony documents that have been prepared by the court recorder (in Hebrew) during the proceedings.

Requests for a translator, or permission to read court transcripts, should be requested prior to a trial through the court secretary.

Legal Aid Bureaus

Legal Aid Bureaus offer legal counseling and representation in court regarding civil suits for persons who are unable to afford a lawyer. Assistance is free of charge, except for a registration fee, which is based on a sliding scale.

To apply for legal aid, you must fill out a form at the nearest Legal Aid Bureau:
